

The Carolina Inn at UNC

Welcome to The University's Living Room.

Built by UNC alumnus John Sprunt Hill in 1924 and later gifted in 1935 to the University, the Inn serves as "a cheerful inn for visitors, a town hall for the state, and a home for returning sons and daughters of alma mater." Still owned by the university, the AAA Four Diamond Inn is the only hotel ^[1] located on the university campus. In addition to its rich cultural history, the Inn is architecturally significant, blending elements of antebellum Southern plantation homes with Georgian and neoclassical features, often found in the Northeast. The building's original front was modeled after the Potomac River front of Mt. Vernon.

The Inn has undergone six major renovations since 1924 including three major additions. The original grandeur and traditional warmth is felt throughout the Inn, while guests experience modern services and amenities. A collection of antiques, along with objects original to the Inn in 1924, complements the casually elegant décor.
